

To Whom It May Concern:

In the time that David Choi worked at WizKids, Inc. he has been a model employee. During his tenure at WizKids he was responsible for the development of 3D models (polygonal and NURBS) for several lines including MechWarrior, Race Day: NASCAR, and ZyPods. He was also the primarily responsible for running and maintenance of the 3D rapid prototype printer and established several working relationships with rapid prototype vendors. David has a very strong work ethic coupled with the ability to get his work done on time and within or under budget.

His high skill/knowledge of 3D sculpting and animation, unique sense of design, teamwork, and a consistent positive and upbeat attitude made working with David a real pleasure.

Any company that employs him would be very lucky indeed.

Thank you for your time,
