

To whom it may concern:

As a student of David Choi, I can attest to his amazing instructional ability and his power to place the seed of inspiration in anyone. While juggling a job, projects and other students, he willingly gave his spare time to help train me individually as a 3D artist. David literally took me from knowing nothing about Maya to building models I could be proud to show in my portfolio.

As a member of the Northwest Alias User Group, I was privileged to hear David speak and freely give advice and tips to other 3D working professionals.

David clearly possesses the knowledge to complete the job and the priceless ability and generosity to share it with others in a way that a beginner can grasp and a professional can value.

I would feel honored to work with him in the future.

Sincerely,
