David Choi is one of the most efficient, energetic and opinionated artists I've ever had the opportunity to hire and work with. His intelligence and 3D technical expertise proved extremely valuable in adapting his strong gamedev modeling skills into physical 3D plastics. During our year working together at WizKids, he demonstrated great focus, willingness and flexibility in taking on any task large or small. Self-motivated and critical, David applies high standards to himself and to his teammates.
